THIRTY-EIGHTH YEAR No. 49

BANKS WILL DISTRIBUTE XMAS SAVINGS FUNDS TOTTALLING THOUSANDS

Hancock County Bank States That About $25,000 Will Be Sent Out In Checks; 1930 Savings Accounts Opens Monday.

Hancock County Bank in Bay St. Louis is distributing through checks mailed yesterday afternoon $25,000 in Christmas Savings, according to an announcement made by Chas. J. Mitchell, who handles the Christmas Savings department at this bank. It is understood that the two branch banks of Hancock County Bank at Pass Christian and Long Beach will distribute an additional $17,000 this week.

There are this year approximately 750 contributors to the Christmas Savings accounts and the amount saved is about the same as that of last year.

The bank uses a number of plans for the savings accounts, one plan being called the one cent increasing upward to 50 cents, that is one cent the first week and an additional cent each week until the last week is 50 cents. Another plan is the two, five and ten cent increasing and reducing plan. Then there are the straight plans of 25 and 50 cents, $1, $2, $5 or $10 each week.

The $1 a week plan appears to be the most popular, Mr. Mitchell said. "The Christmas Savings accounts are a good plan for providing money for Christmas expenditure of the saving the money for taxes," Mr. Mitchell said.

The next year's club is ready for anyone to begin now who desires to do so and the first payment will be due Monday, December 9.

Merchants Bank and Trust Company Has Between 600 and 700 Depositors Who Will Receive Their Checks

Merchants Bank and Trust Company is distributing thousands of dollars this week through the annual Christmas Savings accounts, the checks for the 600 to 700 depositors having been prepared earlier this week and mailed Thursday night so that they are being received in the mail today. Christmas cheer will be carried into many homes by the receipt of the check which guarantees the receiver sufficient funds for the purchase of Christmas gifts or for other purposes to which the savings fund will be devoted, notably the paying of taxes.

All plans known for the Christmas Savings accounts are used at this bank, Geo. R. Rea, president, said explaining that this system of savings is controlled by the same company and increasing, increasing and reducing or straight sums methods may be chosen by the depositors. The $1 a week has been found to be the most popular among the depositors, he said. Next year a new plan will be followed regarding the method of checking up the deposits, Mr. Rea announced. The pass book method will be substituted for the card system used this season, and in the pass book the amount of the deposit will be entered instead of punching the card as heretofore.

The new club is now open and anyone desiring to join may do so, but the first payment will become due Monday of next week.

XMAS GREETING CARDS TO BE MORE POPULAR THAN EVER

Cards Are More Attractive Than Ever—Echo Printing Dept. Has Fine Stock

In order to continue serving our regular customers and to serve the new trade we may be favored with, The Sea Coast Echo Printing Department is prepared to print personal greeting cards for Christmas and the New Year, and offers a select stock from which to choose. We do not sell from the book or sampler but from stock on hand. For quite a number of years we have been serving quite a clientele for the Christmas trade and this year will be no exception.

We also serve out of town patrons. Several wrote last year leaving the selection to us and in every instance the customer was satisfied with our selection and the reasonableness of our prices. We print as small a number as twenty-five.

Christmas cards promises to be more popular than ever. This is due to the large increasing demand each year. A card is so expressive, means so much and costs so little, besides it stamps the sender as a thoughtful friend or acquaintance and one of good breeding.

Our stock is ready for inspection and we are booking orders for delivery. We have already printed 2800 and over this season. May we serve you, dear reader. Patronizing the Sea Coast Echo is buying at home and supporting home industry.

BANKERS ADDRESS ROTARY

Of Bay St. Louis Wednesday Noon On Failure Of State Banking Guaranty Law

George R. Rea, president of the Merchants Bank & Trust Company, and Leo W. Seal, executive cashier of the Hancock County Bank, both of this city were speakers before the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club at the West Hotel luncheon Wednesday afternoon, telling of the fallaciousness and danger of the present Mississippi so-called guaranty law.

Armed With Facts and Figures

Mr. Rea spoke during a period of fifteen minutes or more and armed with figures and facts he told in unbiased fashion how a law that was intended to prove a vast benefit both to the public and banks had failed to meet the purpose for which it was conceived; that if it continued unrepealed it would ultimately result in confiscation by the State of smaller banks over the State.

Deficit Instead of Surplus

As is known every bank is penalized in the amount of its deposits to form a sinking fund at Jackson from which it is supposed to pay therefrom depositors of banks that fail. That particular fund, Mr. Rea stated, instead of having worked out when framed by legislators, now has a deficit of three and one half million dollars. The State today collects from banks of the State $325,000 annually money belonging to stockholders of good and solvent banks, hence it can easily be seen that the longer this bleeding process of good banks by the State continues, these banks will in many instances eventually deteriorate.

20 Years to Pay Off Other's Losses

Mr. Rea said with a deficit of over three million dollars it will take the State twenty years to pay off depositors of defunct banks, even though another bank did not fail. The five calls made on the bank in annum is the limit, hence the $3.25 million deficit.

Failure In Other States

Eight states have had the bank guaranty law, and of this number seven have had it repealed, while Mississippi is struggling along with a most communistic theory that was ever foisted and legitimate business and an unsuspecting public.

There are the figures over a period of ten years, showing the respective deficits in each State:

Nebraska, 15 to 20 million.
N. Dakota, 21 million.
S. Dakota, 20 million.
Oklahoma, 12 to 20 million.
Texas, 20 million.
Washington, 8 million.
Mississippi, 3 to 4 million.
The State guaranty law, Mr. Rea said, State banks in Mississippi over a period of ten years had shown an increase in deposits of only 38 per cent.

In other States, with no guaranty law, Florida gained 190 per cent; Alabama, 81 per cent; Tennessee, 60 per cent; Louisiana, 50 per cent. Both State and national banks, with no guaranty law, had gained 72 per cent.

Want Only One Section of Law Repealed

Mr. Rea said, among other things, that the present law was wrong in principle and unfair to all well managed banks. All that the banks of State are asking the forthcoming legislature to do is to let the law with its rigid examinations, etc., stand but repeal the guaranty provision that does not guarantee and that was playing havoc with more have to come to every stockholder, owing $1000 worth of stock. It encouraged reckless and unsafe banking under the pretext of guaranty by those irresponsible who would enter banking. It prohibited present day banks from accumulating larger secondary reserves, because of the cost banks incurred in the cause of the law, hence the public was suffering when asked to pay 8 per cent straight on all loans.

It was evident from Mr. Rea's address, backed with an array of facts and figures that the law is vicious, fallacious and atrocious in principle.

Cashier Leo W. Seal remarked that Mr. Rea's address was well said and in which he added argument why the guaranty law was a failure and a menace.

Local Banks Extraordinarily Strong

While the State guaranty law will in time prove confiscatory to smaller banks, it is well-known the Bay St. Louis banks, while penalized five times a year, like other banks in no ways suffer unduly from the effect of the reason of their well-known stability and conservative management. In fact, it is well-known proverbial over the State the Hancock County Bank, the first in the State and Bay St. Louis, and the Merchants Bank and Trust Company are among the first in the State and Bay St. Louis.

Excellent and well-managed management of both banks have won for them decidedly a good and lasting name.

R. N. BLAIZE IS SPEAKER BEFORE BAY ROTARY CLUB

Tells of Interesting Trip To Eldorado Oil Fields and Intermediate Points.

R. N. Blaize, well-known local resident and business man, by previous invitation, told Bay St. Louis Rotarians Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Weston of a recent trip he made to Eldorado, Arkansas to the Smackover Oil fields.

Mr. Blaize was a member of a party invited on the trip and was one of the largest oil producing companies in the country, and told of the things he saw, including many interesting and amusing incidents. He told of the great field with its hundreds of producing wells; of the gas well on fire at Monroe, La. Visiting at Natchez he was a guest of G. O. Kornoffer, Bay St. Louis summer resident.

He was recently made resident representative for the Superior Oil Co., and already has a force of men east of the L. & N. R. tracks preparing for the wholesale selling equipment to be immediately installed.

Mr. Blaize is a good raconteur, has a keen sense of humor and is a fluent and happy speaker. Rotarians enjoyed the constructive and interesting talk, and President McDonald commented most favorably on this feature of the afternoon's program. Mr. Blaize's trip was told in extensive in last week's issue of The Echo.

He has been a member of the fraternity for 33 years having joined while a student at Northwestern University, at that time located at Clarksville, Tenn., but moved to Memphis about five years ago. It is a matter of gratification to Mr. Rea to know that the only fraternity with a lodge house on the Southwestern University campus is the Kappa Sigma.

The members of the committee, five in number, and the editor of the official magazine, will make headquarters at the Inn-by-the-Sea where Mr. Rea has engaged the third floor of the new addition. ### RED CROSS REGULAR ROLL CALL MONTHLY MEETING

Annual Roll Call Will Close Saturday of This Week—Reports To Be Made

The annual Roll Call for the American Red Cross which has been in progress in Bay St. Louis and Hancock county this past week, will close Saturday of this week and all chairmen are asked to report to Miss Mathilde Ladner, general chairman of committees, at the Chamber of Commerce, Saturday or before, so that a complete report of the memberships secured can be made. Walter Gex, Jr., county Roll call chairman, has asked Miss Ladner to receive all reports Saturday.

As far as can be determined it appears that the Roll Call is going forward successfully, each of the chairmen and workers being active in furthering this important humanitarian work.

The first chairman to report results of the canvass for members is Mrs. H. M. Query who secured 42 members and a total of $42.50 as one member not only purchased the dollar membership but donated 50 cents to the local fund. Mrs. Query secured this total in one day's work.

Miss Ethel Otis has been appointed to act as chairman for Logtown and Mrs. R. D. Love is acting chairman for Kiln.

The Echo again adds its opinion that the Red Cross is a worthy organization and work and urges the people of the city and county to assist this cause by the purchase of the annual membership of $1.

AT HOSPITAL

W. W. Stockstill, local attorney, who has been ill for some months is now a patient at the King's Daughters Emergency Hospital. He is reported to be somewhat improved. Mayor Chas. Traub, Sr., a member of the executive board of the Chamber of Commerce, presented the matter to the city commissioners who appropriated the $2500.

Geo. R. Rea, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Chas. Traub, member of executive committee, appeared before the board of supervisors requesting assistance for the advertising work of the local commercial organization and the supervisors cooperated by allowing $800.

TELEPHONE GIRLS RECEIVE GIFTS AT THANKSGIVING TIME

Good Service Is Remarkable And J. Perry Drake And Robt. L. Genin Treat

The telephone operators in the local exchange were pleasantly remembered Thanksgiving Day by two friends who took this occasion to express in a tangible form appreciation for the good service rendered.

J. Perry Drake presented each of the operators with a bag of fruit and candy. Robt. L. Genin, one of the famous hunters of this section, gave each of the operators birds which he had secured on a hunting trip.

The operators who must be on hand all the time to answer the call of the telephone, no matter what the hour, are consistently courteous and kind to all and render fine service and they appreciate the courtesies which come to them from the friends who thus recognize their value to the community.

YOUNG CHILD FALLS INTO FIRE, BURNED

Dorothy Merle Polillon, 18-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Polillon of Washington street, was badly burned Tuesday night when she fell into an open grate at the family home.

The burns were about the arms, legs, and body, almost all of one side being burned. The mother had gone into an adjoining room to get another child when she found the baby in the fire. She found little Dorothy Merle whom she had left starting up, lying face down in the ashes of the grate. Only one small burn was on the face but the body was most painfully burned. The condition of the child cannot be determined for several days, it was said.

COUNTY LOSES OLD RESIDENT

Thomas R. Smith, native of Hancock county, died at his home in Sellers Community Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, following an illness from senile debility. Mr. Smith was quite ill in this city some few weeks ago, when he was at the King's Daughters Hospital, improving he subsequently returned to his home in the country.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, following a service at the Sellers home. The funeral was held at the Sellers home and was attended by a large number of friends and acquaintances from surrounding country. In addition to several married daughters, Mr. Smith is survived by five sons, J. E., Terry, Lamuel and Marion, a number of grandchildren and several great grandchildren.

Mr. Smith lived to see next year. He would have celebrated his 90th birthday. He served all during the civil war with the Union, having run away from home quite a boy in quest of adventure. After the war he returned home and took up his residence in this county and was one of the best known citizens and was engaged in farming and kindred pursuit.

BEAUTIFYING THE COAST.

"Every new flower and shrub planted along the Mississippi Coast adds just that much to its attractiveness."
We find the above printed in a box at the top of the Biloxi-Gulfport Herald's first page. It is an effective way for calling attention to a matter which every Gulf Coast citizen should give attention.
Thousands of tourists from all parts of the country are coming here—summer and winter. If every mile along the highway from Mobile to New Orleans were beautified by the planting of tropical trees, shrubs and flowers it would be of inestimable value as an advertisement for this section, and The Echo hopes the day is not far distant when it will be done.

EXPLAINING CRIME.

We hear very often the statement that crime is on the increase but Attorney General Davis, of Florida, thinks that the impression is an erroneous one, considering all the circumstances of our present day lives.
The man of today who lives a year says Mr. Davis, is living the equivalent of five years in activity, travel, and association, as compared with the man living a century ago. The impression that crime is on the increase, the Attorney General says, is gained through greater communication facilities and an increased emphasis and a more extensive publicity for crime in an abnormal proportion. All things considered crime, relatively speaking, is not more numerous than it was a century ago.

PAYING SUBSCRIPTIONS HELPS

It is not often that The Echo takes this space to call attention of its subscribers to their subscription accounts.
Nevertheless, the growth and progress of The Echo is entirely dependent upon the prompt renewal of subscriptions, as they expire. It is absolutely impossible to plan a business unless income can be foretold to a reasonable degree, and the subscribers who are prompt in sending in their renewals help us in planning to make The Echo more readable.

$2,000,000 A YEAR.

We don't blame private interests for trying to grab the great water power resources of the country. Naturally, they know how large a profit they can make out of these natural sources of wealth.
The attorney for the Los Angeles Water Power Commission recently declared at a hearing in Washington that in its twelve years of operating the municipal plant the City of Los Angeles had saved $25,000,000 while reducing rates and improving service.

WHAT'S NEXT?

A jewelry store was robbed at McComb City a few nights ago and in addition to one Willoughby arrested as principal, J. Sam McGuire, an attorney, is under $2000 bond, being charged as an accessory. Willoughby has a criminal record and was arrested in McGuire's office and the law officials claim to have proof that McGuire was a party to the robbery.

On Thanksgiving Day the winter racing season opened at the Jefferson Park track, (New Orleans) and again the usual crop of suckers will try to beat the gamblers in "taking winners." It can't be done!

Readers of The Echo are always invited to send us news items for publication. Many communities can get valuable publicity if someone in each section will send that reports of its activities and developments are sent in to the press.

People in Bay St. Louis can encourage the growth of Bay St. Louis by trying to buy what they need at home. Merchants do their part in building Bay St. Louis when they meet modern competition with fair prices and honest service. Believe us, many local merchants are doing this.

The six bandits who robbed the Hibernia Bank armored truck some months ago have all been convicted and given maximum penitentiary sentences. Let the good work continue, and it will not be long before bank robbers and other desperate criminals will have some respect for New Orleans courts.

There were 1,182,941 marriages in the United States during the year 1923, a decrease of 18,556 from 1922. There were 195,936 divorces in 1923, an increase of 3,002 over the preceding year. Thus six marriages were performed to every divorce last year, but even so the ratio is entirely out of reason.

As the days roll by the number of suicides by men who lost their all in playing the Wall Street stock market continues to increase. Poor fools! Like sheep they were sheared by the merciless manipulators of the market, and self-destruction offered the most effective means of forgetting their losses.

An even dozen Oklahoma banks closed their doors in one day last week. Their failure was attributed to "frozen assets," collateral which could not be converted into cash when it was most needed. Maybe so, but it looks to us that poor management and the absence of sound banking sense was the more likely cause of their failure.

THE CHURCH AS COMFORT.

The great task of civilization is the making of finer human beings. This is also the chief aim of Bay St. Louis whether we always realize it or not.
Most people, we believe, want to be "good," they want to do the right thing and, in the great majority of cases, can be counted upon to do so.
The mad rush of present day social and business life sometimes prevents us from an orderly advance upon this objective. At times, however, there comes breathing spells, in which individuals reflect upon life and plan for its betterment.
Probably the greatest single agency for the advancement of mankind is the church. Those who gather in a temple of worship receive the advantage of calm, spiritual consideration of the things of the soul. These are the attributes of real growth. They should be nurtured by every human being.

Going to church may, or may not, be a necessity to what is termed "salvation," but it is a source of comfort and solace to millions every week in the United States. If any readers of these columns does not try to attend a religious service regularly we hope they will give some serious thought to the subject, and participate in some form of worship.

A NEW DEWBERRY.

A new variety of our old fashioned dewberry has recently been developed by a Louisiana horticulturist which, it is claimed, is double the size of the native berry, and a yield of 100 bushels per acre is reasonable to expect.
It is stated that these berries have an excellent flavor and syrup made from them is especially fine for use in soft drinks, ice cream, sherbert and for other flavoring purposes. From one bushel of the berries five gallons of juice can be extracted and the same retails at $1.40 per gallon. Think of $700.00 being the returns from one acre of ground! Surely nothing could be more profitable, and cultivation of the berry is a matter which should receive attention by people in our rural districts.
The Echo does not vouch for the absolute correctness of the claims made as detailed herein, but any one interested wishing to secure more information can communicate with W. S. Anderson, horticulturist, at the Poplarville Experiment Station.

PASS CHRISTIAN AFTER LANDING FIELD.

Over at Pass Christian the local chamber of commerce is sponsoring a movement which has as its purpose the establishment of an airport or landing field for airplanes. A most commendable and forward step, and The Echo hopes that Bay St. Louis will lose no time in following our neighbor's lead.

It will not be many years when travel by airplanes will be as common as it is by automobiles today, and every city should provide itself with a landing field, and the same should be located as near the business center of the city as it is possible to secure a suitable site.
It is a matter that should receive early attention—at a time when land can be purchased at a reasonable figure. In the event a city or town is not able to provide a landing field and make it a free field it seems to us that the project is one which offers fair returns as an investment for private individuals who have the financial ability to establish same in almost any community.

OUR LEGISLATURE AND ROADS

The vast majority of the people of Mississippi are wondering what will be accomplished in the way of highway legislation at the coming session of the legislature. They have grown tired of the administration and the anti-administration factions "passing the buck" and the time has come when they will no longer stand for it.
The political fortunes of neither faction is of the least interest or concern to the men and women who have been forced to travel over the make-shift roads of the State while the Bilbo and the anti-Bilbo legislators have frittered away many months in wrangling over which crowd should have the upper hand in giving Mississippi a decent system of hard-surfaced roads.
Should further time be lost in providing what the people of the State are demanding in the way of such roads responsibility will be placed at the door of the members of both factions and it will spell their political doom.

INSPIRATION FOR THE YOUNG.

The railroad world of this country lost one of its greatest figures last week when Benjamin Franklin Yoakum passed away. His career reads like a fairy tale. Born on a Texas farm seventy years ago, he began work as a clerk in a Southern Pacific freight office at Houston and then joining the engineering force he had a part in the construction of the International and Great Northern railroad. Step by step he mounted the ladder of success, and when he retired as an active executive in railroad affairs had under his control and management 17,000 miles of track, at that time the largest mileage under single control in the country. It was his boyhood ambition to become a railroad builder, and his achievement of that ambition should impress itself upon youngsters of the present generation.

EXIT FOR THE BEGGAR.

The city commissioners of Clarksdale have adopted an ordinance to prevent begging on the streets of that town. In a few instances where the enforcement of such an ordinance would be a hardship on some deserving and worthy person, it will prove a blessing in other cases. There are entirely too many able-bodied imposters soliciting alms on the streets of every town in the country and anything done to get rid of them is most welcome. Every community has within its own borders people who are unfortunate and entitled to all the charity that can be extended to them, but the professional beggar who is ever on the move from town to town should be shown no consideration. Other cities should follow the example of Clarksdale.

The stock market collapse broke up a lot of Christmas plans.

ROAD BUS-TERS

Highways are built for the service of the people and not for public service corporations operating for hire. The District Attorney of Hancock County has filed in the Chancery Court of this county a suit asking for an injunction against operating bus lines over the highways of Biloxi.

The suit was filed in the name of the State of Mississippi Ex-Rel E. D. Hewitt, District Attorney, to test the question of whether a public service corporation of this nature can use the public highways of the State. The suit also seeks to recover $3,000 alleged damages to the highways in this county.

The suit alleges that heavy bus lines, with a capacity of from 25 to 40 people, traveling at a rapid rate of speed over gravelled highways, will soon ruin the roads of the state, and that the highways were not built and cannot be maintained for public service corporations to operate on.

Buses do not contribute to the upkeep of the highways, the district attorney contends. In this country they operate along Highway 51, parallel with the Illinois Central Railroad. This railroad is the heaviest taxpayer in the state. The bus lines are anything else but.

These bus lines, in direct competition with the railroads, tear along the highways, and privately-owned automobiles are forced to take to the tall timbers. They scatter the gravel in our roads to the four winds and tear up the road bed, and no questions are asked.
If these buses are allowed to use the highways, they should be required to slow down in bad weather and go carefully in good weather, pay a tax commensurate with a passenger business the year through and thus measure up, somewhat, to the duties and responsibilities that other concerns in like business have to meet.
Aside from the damages these road bus-ters do to our highways, their operation in direct competition to our railroads is unfairness of the rankiest variety. The railroad builds and maintains its own roadway, and pays into the county coffers a large sum of money annually for the privilege of operating thereon. Why should the people be asked to provide highways for the operation of bus lines?
The outcome of the suit of the district attorney will be awaited with much interest.—McComb Journal.

GRATEFUL

If anyone were to offer an amount of money equivalent to the assessed valuation of the Mississippi Gulf Coast to Arthur Brisbane, most brilliant editorial writer, to pay him to mention this beautiful favored country in his encouragement of winter visitors to warmer climes, he would flatly refuse it.
Yet, in his writings he has voluntarily included the Mississippi Gulf Coast with Florida and California and millions of people have been reached by this unbiased source of information. People who know Mr. Brisbane or who have followed his brilliant success as a journalist and editorial writer, and as a business man, or as observer of men and things, do not take his opinions lightly.
Therefore the Mississippi Gulf Coast owes a debt of gratitude to Mr. Brisbane that it will not be able to repay even if he is willing to accept gratitude for what he has done. But we can be grateful nevertheless.
One form of expression of our feelings can be accomplished by adding to the beauty that is here by keeping the vista clean and by building so that this will be a still more desirable place in which to live or sojourn as a visitor. Another is to strive to build up a prosperous community by energetic devotion to our daily work. Another is to be most courteous to every visitor, however lowly, that comes to our shore.
If that can be accomplished, Mr. Brisbane will take our deeds for our words.—Biloxi News.

CRUELTY TO ORPHANS

A dispatch appearing in the daily press states that it has been learned through authoritative sources that three indictments have been returned by the Hinds county grand jury in connection with the whipping of a girl inmate of the Baptist orphanage at Jackson. Those said to have been indicted were the superintendent of the institution and two matrons, and further that it was known that efforts was being made to have the indictments quashed in some manner, as the board of trustees of the orphanage admitted that the superintendent and two matrons are no longer with the institution, which to our way of looking at it is a very poor excuse to prevent their prosecution and punishment if the charge against them can be proven. It is indeed a mean man or woman who would be guilty of beating a poor and defenceless child, but it is ever so often that such brutes are found in orphanages and asylums throughout the country.

Gone glimmering are the chances of both Rush H. Knox and Barnie H. but of ever being governor of Mississippi. A few months ago it looked as almost certain that one or the other of them was sure of nomination. To day both of them are in the discard and all due to their own fault. As they have been proven unfaithful public servants and are never more to be trusted in office with the gift of the people of this State.

Two men on Wednesday night held up and robbed W. H. Cole and wife of Pascagoula on the Spanish Trail between that town and Ocean Springs. By quick work on the part of law officers the bandits were apprehended on the Pontchartrain bridge, the loot secured by them recovered and they are now in the Jackson county jail. In addition to facing the charge of highway robbery, the two scoundrels must also stand trial for the theft of the automobile they were traveling in the same having been stolen in Alabama.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS CHRONICLED IN THE SEA COAST ECHO

20 YEARS AGO.

Mr. Wm. Ames went to New Orleans this morning where he spent the day on business.

Mr. Eaton J. Bowers, Jr., was here from Gulfport last Sunday, spending the day with Bay St. Louis friends.

Mr. George R. Rea, cashier of the Merchants Bank, returned this morning from a business visit up Jordan river to Catahoula and Standard.

Mr. L. M. Power is having his recently purchased home on the beach front extensively remodeled and beautified, and it is being much admired.

Mrs. L. Landreaux went down to New Orleans during the week to attend the wedding of a friend and to witness several performances of the French Opera.

The W. O. W. Dramatic Club will present at Woodman Hall tonight the well known rural comedy drama "Uncle John." Come out and enjoy a good play.

Hon. John Osinach went over to Biloxi on Tuesday night to witness a performance of "The Servant in the House." While there he was the guest of his son, Mr. Gus. Osinach, editor of the Biloxi Herald.

Politics and office holding, in Bay St. Louis as well as elsewhere, appears to hold many charms and fascinations; for this campaign is no exception as regards the names of men running for office who have never heretofore aspired to political preferment.

Manager Sigerson of the Bay Picorium has had his theatre thoroughly overhauled and strengthened since the storm, and, in addition to other improvements, has had two extra emergency escapes built which were completed this week.

W. A. McDonald has shown an unusual spirit of public enterprise when he placed at the disposal of the Home Missionary Society of the Main Street Methodist Church his large store building at the corner of Main and Front streets in which to hold the holiday bazaar on Thursday and Friday of next week. The management of the bazaar are to be congratulated upon having so spacious a place and so prominent a location.

TEN YEARS AGO

Misses Francis and Lavinia Barrett, of New Orleans, were guests Sunday of Mrs. J. L. Gager in Carroll avenue.

Mrs. George J. Toca and daughter, Eunice have gone to New Orleans where they will spend a week or more with friends and relatives.

The Echo exceedingly regrets to learn of the serious illness from typhoid fever of its young friend, Mr. Robert G. Campbell, of this county, who left here recently for Bowling Green, Ky., in order that he might take up a course at a commercial college at that place. His condition is so critical that both his brother, Alexander, and sister, Miss Christine, have gone to his bedside.

Mr. H. J. Thurston, president of the Thurston Canning Co., was a business visitor to New Orleans yesterday. The Echo is gratified to learn of the constant expansion of the business of that company. Its product is now placed extensively on the market and the demand for more continues.

Col. Charles Marshall returned home Wednesday from New Orleans, where he passed the past several weeks at Toussaint Hospital, recovering from the injury received while alighting from a train one night in Bay St. Louis. Col. Marshall is at the family home in Front street and The Echo is glad to note that he is on the high road to recovery.

That Bay St. Louis and Hancock county are to have a fair next fall was unanimously decided at a specially called meeting of the citizens at the courthouse Monday morning, at which meeting the county was well represented. Hon. H. S. Weston of Logtown, presided and stated the object of the meeting. The election of officers resulted as follows: David Weston, president; Chas. G. Moreau, vice-president; T. E. Kellar, secretary; Leo W. Seal, treasurer. Executive committee: David Weston, C. G. Moreau, T. E. Kellar, Leo W. Seal, Frank B. Pittman and Miss Sallie Giriot. As the bulk of the county people contribute largely to the success of the exhibits, the Bay St. Louis merchants and other business men will be called upon in due time to do their share toward the project, particularly since the holding of the fair in Bay St. Louis means so much to the town.

Better Service Costs Less

The numerous rate reductions made in recent years have taken a large slice off the bill for railway freight service paid by the American people. The 1923 bill was $152,000,000 less than the same amount of transportation would have cost at the average rate of 1923-24, $416,000,000 less than it would have cost at the average rate of 1922 and $840,000,000 less than it would have cost at the average rate of 1921.

But that does not tell the whole story. While the price of railway freight service has been going down, its quality has been going up, and the better service has saved additional money for shippers and receivers of freight.

These additional savings have come chiefly from the improved speed and dependability of railway freight service. Faster service has reduced interest charges on the value of goods in transit, and more dependable service has enabled dealers to reduce the size of their reserve stocks and thus to make savings in the cost of carrying inventories. Better service also has helped to make the flow of business more responsive to changing styles and conditions, and that has meant savings. Further savings have come from the safer handling of freight; shippers have had fewer claims for loss and damage.

The savings from lower rates, large as they are, considerably understate the total savings in the costs of business generally for which the railroads have been responsible.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

This dazed Bermond, who was not used to gratitude. He gasped.

"That's nice! All right. Go home and pack up."

She hastened home, and her heart was a little lighter with the little thrill of her first railroad voyage.

That had taken her from the mid-West to the Southwest. Now she was to triumph back across the mid-West and on to the Northeast, the Southeast, the two borders, the two coasts, and all the towns between.

Remember the cinemite was going forth like Peter the Hermit to summon people to her banner of rescue, of sympathy, of ardor.

Her mother was as joyous as she. The crusade was a new youth to her; it brought belatedly all the treasures of experience she had given up hoping for.

For the best she had ever expected was an occasional change of village, to move, as the evicted wife of a poor preacher, from one personage whose dullness she had grown used to a new boredom. Now she would travel like a dowager empress from capital to capital as the mother, the author of a famous screen queen.

The royal progress was to begin with the transcontinental leap to New York to assist at the opening of the picture on Broadway—"On Broadway"—to the actor what "In Heaven" is to the saint, "In Rome" to the priest, "In Washington" to the politician, "In goal" to the athlete.

The bandoned suitors of Me made a sorry squad at the Santa Fe station. They started at her with humiliated devotion.

Bermond sent a bushel of flowers and fruit to her drawingroom. He saw to it that there were reporters to give her a good send-off.

She left Los Angeles another woman from the lorn, lone thing that had crept into the terrifying city, as so many sick lungers, faint hearters, wounded war victims had crept into it and found it a restoring fountain of health and hope and ambition.

She waved goodbye with a homesick sorrow in her eyes. Her consolation was her last shout:

"I'll come back! I'll come back!"

She had a little of the feeling Eden must have had as she made her last walk down the quickest paths of Eden toward the gate that would not open again.

The train stole out of Eden like the serpent that wheeled Eve into the outer world. It glided through opulent Pasadena and Redlands and San Bernardino, awilderness of olives, palms, and dangleing apples of gold in oceans of orange trees.

By and by came Cajon Pass, where the train began to clamber over the mountain walls that were the gate of this paradise; up the deep ravine known as Murder Canon when this land was unattainable until a pathway of human and animal bones had been laid down.

Winter was waiting on the other side. There was winter here, too, of a sort, but it was the pretty winter of Southern California. The landscape was mounded to wistfulness.

While trees were all affluted with gilded leaves as if butterfly swarms were clinging there, the wind, blown from the orange groves, was no longer enriched with the fragrance of cactus, versatile in ugliness, marzanita and Joshua trees, were the emblems of nature's poverty.

Yet there was something dear to Mem in the very soil. She could have kissed the ground good-by, as Odysseus flung himself down and pressed his lips on the good earth of Ithaca.

As the train lumbered up the steep, the earth passed before Mem's eyes slowly, slowly. She found the ground more absorbing than the peaks or the sky. She stared inwardly into herself and the common people that she sprang from to busy strangers drawn past her.

She found them the same as the giants—not so big in size, but infinitely bigger in number.

The Sierras and the foothills were only vast totals of minute mountains. She found the world wrinkles of the canons, the huge slabs of rock patched with ragged green, repeated in the tiny scratches that raindrops had made in lumps of dirt. The wind of the passing train sent avalanches of pebbly dirt rolling through forests of petty weeds.

Small lizards darted, yet were not so fast as the train that kept on its way out of paradise, winding like a gorged python. On some of the twists of track she could see its double head and the smoke it breathed. The mountains appeared to rise with the train, mocking it as human effort is always mocked since its every climb discloses new heights, every horizon conquered points with satanic laughter to farther horizons offered for a prize.

Meek and unimportant as the little pebbles were on the slope of the mountains, the peaks had, so their inequalities, and looked to forever snubbing one another.

A tunnel killed the picture like a broken film. Instantly Mem imagined Tom Holby at her side, watching at a kiss. He would have been caught in the theft, for the mountains snapped back into view, only to be blacked out again.

There would have been time for a long, long kiss for many a kiss, if Tom Holby had been there.

She found Tom Holby winking her best in his absence. She wondered if she were not a fool to leave him. He had told her that he had saved money enough to live a long while without working, to travel around the world, to give her a gorgeous home. But she had thought of her ambition and followed it.

She reviled herself for her automatic discontent. When she saw the scenery of home as it held most women captive, she was glad she was a free, free woman.

My mother was nice; but mothers and fathers cannot court in that realm of the heart.

Finally the breathless train paused at the top of its climb. She was going with an impulse to step down and take the first train back.

Here she was at Summit—with the capital "S." Yet there was nothing much to see—a red frame station building with dull green doors and windows, a chicken yard, a red water tank on stilts, a baggage truck, a row of one-room houses crowded together for company in spite of the too abundant space.

Probably the summit of success would be about the same. The fun and the glory were in the scramble up; but it seemed to work so hard for such a cold reward. And she had left orange groves and love and rich shade of obscurity.

Then the train was on its way again, the helper engine withdrawn aside, panting with exertion. The train would coast down to the levels without help. You don't need help to get down. Only when you get down, you would find desert instead of a bower.

The other side of the mountains, after all the effort of getting across, would be like crawling back of a tapestry to study the seamy side, the knots and the patternless waste.

Her youthful eagerness always seemed as an antidote of her discontent. The desert had its charms. The dead platitudinous levels made her go on. Platitudes were labor saving and you went faster and safer on them. And you can see farther on the level. Up high, the mountains get in one another's way, as do jealous artists and contradictory creeds.

The next morning found the desert still running by. The ground was as brown and red and shaggy as the hide of an ancient squaw. There were stabs of snow in the wrinkles; in the air an annoyance of stinky little snowflakes.

The mountains herealong were cruel and snarling. They would not understand the yearning for warmth because they could not. They were cold as the sierras or critics that Mem must try to conquer. But she could feel sorry for them also. It could not be much fun to be cold and bleak and critical.

The cattle sprinkled about the region were working hard for sparse fodder. Life was like that. In the warm, sweet summer, food and drink were easy to get and luscious. Walking was a dream, and sleeping a belligerence; love was balm in the winter, though food and drink were scarce and harsh. Waking was misery and sleep a shivering; love hardly more than two waifs shivering together to keep warm.

At one station Indian girls ran along the track, offering gaudy little earthenware baskets and bright beadwork they had made and an exchange even for such passengers as would take the trouble to buy.

The girls were stripped Navajo shawls that were not warm enough. Their other clothes were inappropriate, somehow—civilized, garish, and a little bit like the old-fashioned woman who would protect the young better than the old mother-murdering systems.

It was only in the last few years that science, freed from religious meddling, had checked the death rate that had slaughtered infants by the billion under priestly rule. And now birth control was the crying need.

Marriage had never been the whole duty of man, and Mem was sure that never again would it be the whole duty of woman. A man had always heretofore felt that he should assume his own career before he had the fetters of matrimony. And a woman was always hereafter feel the same thing.

Terrific euphemisms for slavishness, misalliance, meekness, submission, modesty, piety, propriety had been held a lashes over women for ages. Now whipping was out of style. A girl could go where she pleased and go alone. She could take care of herself better than men had ever taken care of her. There had always been something wrong about letting the wolves elect themselves as guardians of the ewe lambs.

Her mother was with Mem, and that satisfied some people. It made her father happier. But the real reason for her mother's presence was that Mem wanted the poor old soul to get a little fun out of life before it was too late. She and her mother were merely young girl and old girl in a globe-trotting adventure.

Mem was still a young girl, or was awakened from a half sleep, when the racket of the wheels upon the rails sounded a deeper note.

She guessed that the train must be crossing a bridge. She rose and leaned softly across the bed where her mother dreamed of the old home and the exhausting demands of her childhood.

Mem lifted the edge of the curtain aside a little and peered out. The train was in mid-air, passing through a channel of rattling girders. The vast water that swept beneath, moonlight and gleamed, was the Missouri, shimmering in the moonlight.

She remembered that she had once thought of drowning herself in its flood to hide her shame there and bulae, widening circles of flame crawling rainbows, infinitesimal comets rushing through the interstellar deeps of her eyelids.

She had forced her mother to accept the full force of the bed made up on the two seats; she chose the narrow couch and maidenly solitude.

She slept ill that night. Or rather, she lay awake, her mind with bright threads that followed into tapestries of heroic scope.

She was apersonage of importance, a genius with a future, an artist of a new art, the youngest and the best of the arts, the young pantagruelism, born about the year that she was born. It had already bestridden the narrow world like a Colossus and had made the universal language a fact.

She was speaking this long-sought Esperanto for everybody to understand.

She had already seen clippings from London newspapers referring to her with praise. She had seen in the South American magazine a picture of herself as Senorita Rembera Steedon. She had seen a full-page picture of herself in a French magazine with the caption referring to her as "une des actrices les plus belles le Peccan."

Her art was good to her and she must be good to it. It demanded a kind of celibacy, as some religions did. Perfection in celibacy was not often attained in either field, and the temptations to lawful wedlock and doggy domesticity were as fierce and burning as to lawless whim.

But here she was on her way to glory. Yet she tossed in loneliness. A power of love, well, she was fulfilling the newly discovered destiny of her sex.

During the night the train crossed the meridian that would have led her to her old home in Calverly and her father. He had advanced a patriarchal way, from the most ancient father she had known, the time when she left her cradle, to some boy who had hardly fallen out of his, and married her, as soon as nature permitted, to a husband she had perhaps never seen till he lifted her veil and led her away to just a called home, a lock, a stable where she would be kept for breeding purposes and supplemented with other mates if she failed of her one great duty.

They had thought it beautiful too long ago for a fourteen-year-old child to have a child. Now, in the more decent states, it was called a shotgun marriage, and was called a shotgun marriage.

With men that were coming up from the leagues and new boys it promises to be a "Great Stanislaus Team."

The boys and coaches are going to make Basket-Ball just as football was, an undefeated season. So far, the schedule for basket-ball is not made, but will prove to be a good one as in former years.

Led by those two hard plunging backs, Genard and Linam, Stanislaus defeated the strong cadet team the only obstacle in their way for an undefeated season. 800 fans viewed the game in a cold and biting wind.

Taking advantage of good starts, Genard and Linam, in the ends, Punter and passed as it was never done before. While Glover took part in both running and bucking, which he did well considering his being injured, which was the cause of his leaving the game at the half.

The five tallies of the game were divided between the backs who were in a fighting mood and could not be shown.

The playing of Genard, Hallisey, Toca, and Glover for the back field and Capt. Falgout, Lefty Blaize, LeBoeuf, and Benedetto for the line was the best this season, as the boys realized it was their last game for "Dear Old Stanislaus."

Constance, Bro. Peter, the faculty and the student body are very proud of this team and extend their heartiest congratulations to the town people for their loyal backing of the team.

Last Friday more than half of the student body joined in making the Novena which started Nov. 29 and which will end Dec. 8. These boys are going to mass and Holy Communion every morning and there is no better way of making a Novena.

New members will be received into solve her problem. The equation of all the x's and y's of her life had been solved. Now it was a matter of infinity. How wonderful it was that she had not yielded to despair! It gave her an idea for a picture.

Nearly everything was taking the scenario form in her meditations nowadays. Wouldn't it make a great film to show a desperate girl flinging herself in a river to hide her shame, and then to have it roll before her the life she might have lived if she had not drowned herself? Scenes of struggle and triumph, usefulness and helplessness, joy and love could follow and then fade out in the drifting body of the dead girl who had lost her chance at life.

Mem saw herself in the role, and she shivered with the delight of her inspiration. Then she sighed. The censors would never permit the film. Girls must not go wrong or commit suicide on the screen. They could go on sinning and sinning in real life, as they had always done in drama, but the screen was in slavery now and must remember its call.

But she at least was eastward bound, toward the morning that was marching toward her beyond the somber hills of slumber. She breathed deep of the auroral promise in the vast state, where light was trying in the greatest fight, even while they lay under the stars of quicksilver scattered along the sky.

STANISLAUS COLLEGE ECHOES

THE ROCK-A-CHAW TEAM

(An Old Looker)

The G. C. M. A. game brought to a close one of the best seasons enjoyed by the Stanislaus Varsity football team in many years. We have not looked into the records but from early recollections, our 1928 team has been the best seen here for over ten years.

Much credit must be given to our tireless worker and coach, Mr. Grady Perkins. The fundamentals of blocking and tackling which he has infused into the team has been the sole cause of our success. It was no small feat which our Coach assumed and carried out, he felt justly proud from the season's results.

One of the season's "finds" was "Texas, Linam. We all cheered his line-playing in the past few games, but he is not yet at his best. When he joined the squad in September he knew about as much football as Joe Tholle, per se. As for his play, he must buy for our Coach in the training camp and we are sure that next season will see Linam one of the best fullbacks in prep circles.

Our 1929 machine is going to be quite wrecked by graduation. Charley Genard and his side-stepping will be missed; "Buster" Hallisey will throw no more passes for Stanislaus. A number of our longer direct a-Chaw team, "Tugs" Glover and his "wicked hip" will not be seen again in our uniform; "Bull" Blaize will no more count out the steps for the line; Genuet will trek to other fields as well as Captain George Falgout, the latter one of the best line backs that any team wearing the Black and Red has ever had.

The record for the season is as follows:

28 Cathedral Hi (Baton Rouge)	0
12 Gulfport Hi	0
19 Commercial Hi	0
14 Jesuit Hi	0
28 St. Aloisius	0
0 Springfield High	0
20 Holy Cross	0
34 G. C. M. A.	15

Basketball

Basket Ball is here and the coaches are going to have a world of material with which to mould into a great Stanislaus team, just as good as last year's if not better. The goal that is to be aimed at by the team and the coaches and the faculty.

Four of last year's regulars are back and they are in condition to make this year's team a better one than the one of former years. Now, in the more decent states, it was called a shotgun marriage, and was called a shotgun marriage.

H. J. LANDRY MAYOR OF FRIARS POINT IS FORMER COAST MAN

Son of Mrs. F. J. Landry of State Street Heads City Government of Interesting Town

The following excerpt from the Clarkside Daily Register of Friars Point, La., dated Nov. 29, 1929, contains an interesting article about the town about which the article is written.

"In dropping in on the good folks at Friars Point, a visit to the new town hall was made and a complimentary note for the nice old furniture and office supplies they have, some of it added recently. They are seemingly in clover with the lowest tax rate in the state of Mississippi, only ten mills being levied for all purposes and with a bonded debt of only a few thousand dollars, the writer thinks the town really is doing well.

The town has two fine and free flowing wells, have waterworks, fire equipment, good supply of heavy standard fire hose good water pressure, big five hundred candle power light on top of the water tower that can be seen for miles away, as it is one hundred and fifty feet above the street.

They have a good town board composed of the following business men, Mayor H. J. Landry, vice president and cashier of the bank, vice-mayor, J. T. Casey and other members of the board are S. Sacks, L. Raines, W. A. Jones, and J. W. Busby. They pay cash for what they buy and have as the town Clerk, one of the most efficient in the person of Mr. Pearl R. Blaize who can give readily any information desired about the town. They have recently had a large aviation sign painted on the large former moving picture air dome, the letters of which are ten feet high and the sign about forty five feet long. They also have an aviation sign on the Standard Oil Co. plant with a large arrow pointing to the nearest aviation field, the arrow points toward Clarkside field. They have good merchants doing business in the town, lumber mills, oil mill, three large gin plants, stove mill, private log-rail road, a large and commodious school building valued with furnishings at $100,000, teachers home, ferry boat on the Mississippi to the Arkansas side, best place to locate the proposed river bridge across the Mississippi River, one of the county court houses and known as the first court house district with a jail that is rarely ever used. The town is just four miles from the greatest summer resort, Moon Lake, has a good bank, churches, lodges and one of the best and cleverest sets of people one can find and the Register wishes them well.

Class '30 in '50

Brandt—paper boy. Dalton—Admiral of the Navy. Chas. Adams—Advising the love lord. Hallisey—Just graduating for a U. Genard—"Pug the Pugilist."

O'Brien—The seaman. LeBoeuf—Residing in Russia. Leche—An authority on nervous diseases. Stanton—Short hand professor. LeJeune—Big game hunter. Slade—A water.

Wolfe—A baker. Soniat—Tarzan the second. Toca—Basketball coach. Turnbull—A caveman in circus side shows. Villaseor—A man of letters. Glover—Girls' Basketball coach. Slade—An ice man (wouldn't that freeze you?).

Guendard—A jazz hound. Garcia—English professor. Glover wants to be a basketball coach? Red Reine wants to go home? Soniat was sick Sunday? All can sleep? Brandt is called aire-dale? Wackerle likes to pass the Convent? E. S. C. Genard likes to go to bed at eight thirty? Archie Crump always buys The Echo Thursday? Who took H. Wolfe to the game Sunday? Slade did not wear his sweater to the game Sunday? Taormina is called Pascaquale? Dalton always wants a letter from Dominican Convent? Now it was infinity. How wonderful it was that she had not yielded to despair! It gave her an idea for a picture.

Nearly everything was taking the scenario form in her meditations nowadays. Wouldn't it make a great film to show a desperate girl flinging herself in a river to hide her shame, and then to have it roll before her the life she might have lived if she had not drowned herself? Scenes of struggle and triumph, usefulness and helplessness, joy and love could follow and then fade out in the drifting body of the dead girl who had lost her chance at life.

Mem saw herself in the role, and she shivered with the delight of her inspiration. Then she sighed. The censors would never permit the film. Girls must not go wrong or commit suicide on the screen. They could go on sinning and sinning in real life, as they had always done in drama, but the screen was in slavery now and must remember its call.

But she at least was eastward bound, toward the morning that was marching toward her beyond the somber hills of slumber. She breathed deep of the auroral promise in the vast state, where light was trying in the greatest fight, even while they lay under the stars of quicksilver scattered along the sky.

Did you know that Stanislaus has not been beaten this year and that we have scored 182 points to our opponents 15, and that we have played nine games, and that we are about the only high school in the south that has such a record? Try that tune on your piano?

The L. S. U. Choral Club will appear in popular and classical concert at the St. Stanislaus Auditorium, Friday, December 6th at 8 P. M.

About forty members compose the club. This is the largest number the club has carried in several years. An interesting feature of the program Friday afternoon will be the Agitato Quartet composed of especially chosen singers from each voice section of the club.

SHOP EARLY AND MAIL EARLY IS POST MASTER H. C. GLOVER'S SLOGAN

Headquarters From Washington Sends Out Instructions
To Facilitate Annual Mail Rush at Yule Tide.

With Christmas yet some weeks away the postal authorities think it is none too early to begin the "shop early and mail early" campaign and already plans for the handling of the greatest Christmas mail movement in the history of the postal department is under way.

Also daily bulletins are being received by Postmaster H. C. Glover of Bay St. Louis from the Washington postal authorities calling attention to certain changes in the details of the work and plans for the coming rush.

With these bulletins as daily reminders Postmaster H. C. Glover has announced the local drive to "shop early and mail early" campaign to inaugurate the movement for this greatest of all postal events.

With reference to the campaign the following bulletin has been received by Mr. Glover from Walter F. Brown, postmaster general.

No Deliveries.

It is my duty and purpose that the maximum number of our employees in post offices be able to participate fully in the observance of this, the greatest of all holidays, and be with their families for their Christmas dinner. To permit of this there will be no carrier deliveries or window service on Christmas Day. With the exception hereinafter stated, all work in post offices will be suspended from 12 o'clock midnight, December 24, to 12 o'clock midnight, December 25.

"All special delivery mail will be handled and delivered promptly upon receipt. Special attention should be given this mail in order that there may be no failure of service in any instance. The regular holiday collections and disbursements of first class mail and daily newspapers will be made, and there will be retained on duty on Christmas Day only a sufficient number of employees for this purpose, to receive and store but not work, incoming mail and to handle and deliver the special delivery mail as indicated. There will be no city delivery, village delivery, or rural delivery on Christmas Day.

Organize Forces

"Postmasters should immediately commence to organize their offices accordingly. Full publicity should be given to the fact that all ordinary mail service will be suspended on Christmas Day and the public should be urged by every means available to help the post office make its Christmas program a complete success by shopping early and mailing early so that Christmas letters, cards, and parcels will be received and delivered before Christmas Day. Early mailing will aid the dispatch and delivery of all mail.

"The postmaster general urges that the Mail Early Campaign be inaugurated early to insure effectiveness.

Extra Force

In connection with the foregoing it is announced that Arch Coleman, first assistant postmaster general, is sending out instructions to postmasters pointing out that the success with which the vast additional quantity of mail handled in the Yule tide season is dependent upon advance expansion and perfection of the organizations of the postoffices. It is regarded as probable the postal authorities here will use available substitutes in augmenting the force. Post-

FOUR INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT ON OLD SPANISH TRAIL

Two Men and Two Women,
Said to be of New Orleans
Sustained Injuries as Car Overturns Twice.

Two men and two women, thought to be from New Orleans, were injured Sunday night about 7 o'clock, on the Old Spanish Trail when the auto in which they were driving overturned twice. The accident, which occurred about three miles west of Bay St. Louis on the Old Spanish Trail, was attributed to loose gravel.

The four were taken to the King's Daughters Emergency Hospital where they received treatment. The two men suffered lacerations about the head and face, one of the women was slightly injured while the second's injuries were of an undetermined nature. She was taken to the Illinois Central Hospital in New Orleans Monday morning by her husband who joined her here following the accident. The hospital authorities stated that the four patients did not give their names. At a local hotel where they spent the day they likewise did not give their names, simply registering as "Martin and Parry."

COLD HINDERS CANE GROWERS CUTTING THEIR YEAR'S CROP

Fully 80 Per Cent of Crop Is Still in Fields, Cane Grower Stated Here.

A local banker was talking with a Louisiana cane grower the early part of this week. The grower regrets the cold weather as it hinders the cutting and harvesting of the sugar cane. He stated that during the month of November there were only 11 days in which the men could work in the cane fields, the rains and high water prohibiting them from reaching the cane.

Fully 80 per cent still remains in the fields, he said. The crop this year was especially large and a good yield was confidently expected but unless the cane can be gathered in the very near future the cane will be seriously impaired and the yield of syrup and sugar less than had been anticipated.

BAY HIGH TEAM GUESTS OF HOME ECONOMICS CLASS

Gasper Maurigi Elected Captain Football Team 1930,
Nolan Ladner Business Manager

Members of the Bay High football squad with Coach C. E. Craft and Superintendent S. J. Ingram, were the guests of the Senior Home Economics class at a delicious Thanksgiving banquet Tuesday evening at Bay High School. The Tigers lived up to their name in devouring the food, and the girls won a name for themselves in cooking it.

A toast to the team was proposed by Coach Craft, with a response by Herman Casanova in behalf of the squad. Music was furnished during and after the banquet by Warren Larroux. Miss Bessie Givens, head of the English department, gave a delightful reading and Superintendent Ingram made a talk on "What Our Team Means to Bay High."

In the election of officers at the banquet, Gasper Maurigi, the "Pile-Drive" full back, was unanimously selected to captain next year's team. Maurigi, who was alternate captain this year, well deserves the honor conferred upon him. He has waded through every team he has played against this year, and leads the team in touchdowns and in yards gained from scrimmage. As a plunging full-back he has few equals on the Gulf Coast, and he puts up a fine defensive game, besides doing all the passing and most of the punting. The alternate captain will be Lester Garriga, who has given splendid performances at left tackle, and will be an able leader in case of Maurigi's absence. Bay High's first business manager will be Nolan Ladner, alert halfback.

CONFEDERATE RE- UNION

The fortieth annual reunion of Confederate veterans will be held at Biloxi, June 4, 5 and 6, 1930, and already plans are under way for the entertainment of the old soldiers who fought so valiantly under Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and a host of other men whose names and fame are revered by every true Southern man, woman and child.

The executive committee, having charge of affairs met at the Buena Vista Hotel in Biloxi one day last week and plans for the reunion, which will be the largest convention or gathering in the history of Mississippi, were discussed. As it is, at men who are leaders of their respective communities along the coast, the committee is made of the following:

H. E. Bowen, R. L. Simpson, and Clayton Rand, Gulfport; Alonzo B. Hayden, E. A. Lang, and Dr. D. G. Rafferty, Pass Christian; W. M. Herzig, Frank S. Gentry, H. F. Gentry, and W. R. Gully, Pascagoula; Frank Joachim and A. J. Catchot, Ocean Springs; C. C. McDonald and Emilio Cue, Bay St. Louis; John J. Kennedy, J. W. Anderson, Leon J. Roy, Walter B. White, Byrd Enoch, and W. L. Nixon, Biloxi; E. T. Adams, president, board of supervisors, Hattiesburg; K. W. Barnham, president, board of supervisors, Jackson County; and H. S. Weston, president, board of supervisors, Hancock county.

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING BY GRACE VIALI GRAY

THE UNEXPECTED GUEST

It's a simple thing to revive Grandma's idea of the ever-failed cookie jar in these days of self-rising flour. The modern housewife can have cookies of all descriptions ready for the unexpected guest.

Grandma's idea was just a tradition of her time, that no one should leave her house without food or drink. Grandma always expected the unexpected guest.

That was hospitality. That was neighborliness. That was courtesy of the most genuine sort. And Grandma hummed down her fine old tradition to daughter and son, and to her descendants to the third and fourth generation. Grandma's idea is a sacred legacy to the modern housewife and hospitality lives again throughout the land.

Of no small importance in this renaissance of graciousness are the modern "baking" makings. With self-rising flour, Grandma's heir or heiress can have on tap a variety of cookies, cookies simply made and in less than half an hour. Then, when some one drops in unexpectedly, there will be no need of sneaking out for ice cream and delicatessen cake.

Self-rising flour is a home labor-saver, ready for use, reliable, nutritive. It is a soft wheat flour to which the baking powder and salt have been added. Self-rising flour is an insurance against all baking hazards. Try filling up your cookie jar with this recipe:

Lemon Cookies.
1/4 cup butter 1/2 lemon juice and
1 cup sugar 1 grated rind.
2 eggs 1 tsp lemon ex-
1/2 cup milk 1 tract.
2 cups self-rising flour

Directions: Cream the butter and sugar together. Add unbeaten eggs one at a time. Beat until thoroughly blended. Add flour and milk alternately. Then add the lemon juice, rind and extract. Drop by-teaspoonful on a greased baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes.

DEPUTY SHERIFF LANDER NECAISE CATCHES THIEF

After Trailing Negro From Near Kiln to Gulfport,
Hancock County Officer Makes Arrest

Deputy Sheriff Lander Necaise of Kiln figured prominently in a rather unusual case of this apprehension Thursday morning of last week. Hugh Williams, 35-year-old negro, robbed Dave Herman of the White Cypress community which is about 12 miles northwest of Kiln. A number of articles of clothing including a coonskin coat, suit of clothes, shirts, underwear, jar of cold cream and other articles, were stolen about midnight Wednesday night and Deputy Necaise was notified of the robbery. He trailed the negro to Gulfport where in company with a policeman of Gulfport he found the negro hidden at a house in the negro quarters.

The negro was taken to Hancock county jail at Bay St. Louis and was tried before Justice of the Peace F. Fuente of Kiln Saturday afternoon. He was fined $25-dollars and costs and given 30 days in jail.

HAD SUFFERED FOR SEVENTEEN YEARS

"For seventeen years I suffered with such terrible nervous headaches I couldn't even do my housework, the least exertion brought the blood rushing to my head with a dreadful thumping pain, and I'd get real weak and dizzy. A bad liver kept me subject to constipation, and my complexion became sallow looking.

"Two bottles of Sargol simply made a new woman out of me. I've gained ten pounds, and felt stronger and better in every way than I have in seventeen years. Just yesterday I cleaned house by myself, ran up and down stairs at least a dozen times, and didn't have sign of a headache or dizziness. The Sargol Pills that I took with the tonic, regulated my liver and bowels for the first time in years and my complexion has taken on a healthy glow. When I think of the suffering I would have saved myself if I had only started this marvelous treatment sooner, I wish I could tell everybody in Oklahoma City about it."

Profitable Pecan Tree.

A pecan tree located near San Saba, Texas, is probably the most profitable single nut tree in the world. For many years its annual crop of pecan nuts has sold for five hundred to one thousand dollars and in a single season it has produced a crop that sold for one thousand and sixty dollars.

This tree is often spoken of as the father of pecan trees and its towering branches cover an enormous area and there have been but few years when they were not loaded down with nuts of a thin shell, large variety. The nuts from this tree always bring fancy prices.

In addition to the small fortune which the tree has brought its owner from the sale of its annual crop of nuts it has provided thousands of jobs for budding other pecan trees throughout this section. Many of the budded trees are producing big yields of nuts of the same variety as the Jumbo Hollis parent tree.

The famous tree is situated on the banks of the Colorado River, and its age dates back for more than 1,000 years, according to three experts.

NEVER SAW A COW.

Maybe the present generation is wiser than their elders, but it is surprising when one finds out how ignorant they are about some things.

Not long ago a friend, located in a small city where they were experiencing some difficulties with the electric lighting plant and home lights were of little use, the plant was being overhauled, bought lamps to supply light. To his surprise the children of the house were all excited because they had never seen a kerosene lamp before and called in all their friends in the neighborhood to see this method of lighting their parents were raised on.

But that is nothing, there are many children in cities who have never seen a cow and think all milk comes from cans and bottles.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Congresswoman from Illinois, has presented the Chicago zoo with a cow because she says she does not want the thousands of children in Chicago to grow up without having seen a cow. They know an elephant, tiger, rhinoceros, zebra, Polar bear, and what not. With this addition to the zoo, Chicago kiddies may now know where their milk comes from.

KNOCKER OR BOOSTER?

When the Creator had made all the good things, it seemed there was still some dirty work to do, so He made the beasts, and the reptiles and the poisonous insects and when He had finished He still had some old scraps left over that were too bad to put into the Rattlesnake, the Hyena, the Scorpion, and the Skunk; so He put all these together, covered it with suspicion, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak, and called it a KNOCKER.

This product was so fearful to contemplate that He had to make something to counteract it so He took a sunbeam, put into it the heart of a child, the brain of a man, wrapped it in civic pride, covered it with brotherly love, made it a believer in equality and justice, a worker for and supporter of every good thing in the community and called it a BOOSTER; and henceforth mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates.—Anon.

It is an ideal to be fought for with all the wisdom and all the experience of the past centuries.

When in the course of human events you hear that your bank balance is overdrawn, be nonchalant, but don't write any more checks.

HUNDREDS ATTEND RECEPTION GIVEN AT ANNEX NO. 2

Mrs. John Stewart Opens for Inspection Beauty Parlor
And Diet Kitchen.

Annex 2 to The Answer in Union Street which includes a beauty parlor and diet kitchen was officially opened to the public Thanksgiving afternoon in a reception given by Mrs. John N. Stewart, owner and operator of The Answer, and which was attended by hundreds of people from all parts of the Coast who called during the afternoon to greet Mrs. Stewart and compliment her on the success of her enterprise and who were shown the additions which are equipped with the most modern furnishings suited to their respective purposes.

Magnificent floral gifts from business people and firms, and personal friends were used in decoration of the rooms, the lovely seasonal chrysanthemums predominating.

Mrs. Stewart received her guests and assisted by Mrs. E. J. Leonard who poured coffee, Mrs. Marshall Ballard who poured tea and the Misses Levia and Miriam Engman who presided at the punch, sandwich and cake table. An unusual delicacy served was the delicious candied grape fruit peel which Mrs. Stewart herself made. All refreshments served were supplied from The Answer.

WRITES HOME FOR CHRISTMAS SEALS

A fine example of a true son of Bay St. Louis as well as one who is interested in eliminating tuberculosis is that of H. R. Giannelli who now resides at Port Arthur, Texas. He writes to Miss Mathilde Ladner, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, as follows: "I understand you are on the committee of the Red Cross seals. Every year I always get my Red Cross seals from the Bay, no matter where I am, so please send me these at once."

We believe Mr. Giannelli reads the Echo for he is a subscriber as an examination of the files show, and Miss Ladner's appointment on the Red Cross committee appears there. Miss Ladner, however, is not handling the Christmas seal sale, this being the charge of Miss Mary Perkins and her committee. Miss Ladner secured the seals from the Young Ladies at Mauf-ray's store and mailed them to Mr. Giannelli.

Would it be amiss to suggest that the example set here of securing tuberculosis Christmas seals as early as possible should be followed by the local people. These seals are in the various stores and are easily obtainable.

PAT HARRISON SAYS MESSAGE IS UNCERTAIN

Mississippi Senator Disappointed in Hoover's Document to Congress; Claims Views are Indefinite.

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 3.—Senator Pat Harrison, Mississippi, here today en route to Washington, expressed disappointment in President Hoover's message to Congress today.

"After reading the president's message, I am sorely disappointed in the ambiguities and uncertainties of many of his recommendations," said Senator Harrison.

"Mr. Hoover's expressions upon the all important tariff question are nebulous and indefinite," continued the Mississippi senator. "He merely reiterates what he said in a former communication to Congress and leaves the Senate and country in the same confused state of mind as to his position touching rates and schedules."

"What he says with reference to the flexible provision adopted by the Senate is most disappointing. We can assure the president that we will not give up and recede from the Senate position, and if necessary to retain in Congress the power to raise, lower and fix rates, some of us would prefer to see the bill defeated."

"It is a pity the president did not accept the opportunity presented at this time for real leadership in the country and especially of his own party. So far as the expressions in his message on the tariff are concerned, his party in the Senate will continue in the same state of confusion and divide into the same number, if not more groups."

In speaking of the recommendation for tax reduction, Senator Harrison said:

"I am in entire accord with the president's plan of tax reduction."

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES (By Our Society Editor)

BEAUTIFUL RECEPTION BY MISS del BONDIO

A number of guests from Bay St. Louis were included in the number from the coast attending the reception of Miss Eleanor del Bondio, at Pass Christian Sunday evening. The occasion was the christening that day of Miss del Bondio's attractive new home on the West End Beach, Rev. Father Scott, S. J., of New Orleans, performing the religious ceremony, and which was followed by an informal dinner at which he was the guest of honor.

That evening at 7 o'clock the guests for the reception began to arrive until some fifty of seventy-five had been entertained. Miss del Bondio was assisted by Mrs. Cutrer and Miss Marie Bertrand as joint hostesses. The spacious interior of the home was banked on every side by gorgeous flowers, set in baskets and otherwise arranged, and many beautiful blooming gift plants included in the number. These were from friends principally from Pass Christian, New Orleans, Gulfport and Bay St. Louis.

Miss del Bondio's home was recently and originally that of M. Cavallo, Portuguese consul at New Orleans, which she purchased and practically rebuilt, adding and improving there to, and is one of the finer homes of the Coast, its interior and furnishings reflecting the excellent taste and charm of its new owner and as well Miss Bertrand, who resides with Miss del Bondio.

Many distinguished and socially prominent guests marked the occasion Sunday evening by their presence.

Some two years ago Miss del Bondio came out from New Orleans and resided ever since at Pine Hills, and so ennobled she became with the Mississippi Coast that she closed her St. Charles avenue manion and decided to reside on the coast and has placed her former home on the market.

Miss del Bondio and Miss Bertrand are now "at home" to their friends at this beautiful Mississippi Coast home.

Mrs. M. V. Gex and daughter, Miss Gex, are at home after a delightful visit to relatives and friends while in New Orleans. During their stay they were recipients of a number of card parties and other social gestures given complimentary to their stay in the Crescent City, among the number one of the larger bridge parties by Mrs. R. W. Taylor at the family home in Hickory street.
